Community Health Centres and Other Health Centres/ Centres de santé communautaires

Community health centres (CHCs) are places where people can receive primary care. CHCs serve people who either do not have a primary care doctor, or who are unable to get the care they need from their current primary care doctor. CHCs often employ nurses, social workers, mental health counselors, and relationship counselors. They also sometimes provide testing for sexually transmitted infections including HIV, or host organizations that provide testing. They can refer you to other locations for other kinds of care, if it is not available at a specific CHC. You do not need to have an OHIP card to be seen by a doctor at a CHC, or to be referred to someone else by a CHC. All services at a CHC are completely free.

In order to find your closest CHC, consult the following website:

<http://www.health.gov.on.ca/en/common/system/services/chc/locations.aspx>
